

This state chart defines the steps necessary for a pre-existing user to log into the system. In order to log in, the user must enter his/her correct username and password. Error handling is essential to these operations.

